

FUNDING LONG TERM CARE EXPENSES

WITH A LIFE SETTLEMENT

THE SITUATION

Maria Smith¹ is a 91-year-old widow who is extremely concerned about the high costs of impending long term care expenses. Her ValMark Advisor suggested a life settlement as a solution for providing immediate funds to help plan for future costs of long term care. Maria's life expectancy is estimated at between 38 and 50 months.

THE OUTCOME

ValMark's life settlement team worked with multiple providers to negotiate settlement offers resulting in a total gross offer of $185,000³ (before commissions and expenses) or 37% of the Death Benefit. As a result, Maria accumulated enough funds to cover long-term care expenses for more than two years in a semi-private room in Ohio.

SUMMARY

POLICY TYPE	Fixed Universal Life

CASH SURRENDER VALUE	$500

THE TAKEAWAY

The average nationwide cost of a semi-private nursing home room is about $80,300 annually.² Long-term care expenses can result in the greatest crisis in an elderly person's life and can be a devastating financial burden to family members⁴. The sale of a client's insurance policy in the life settlement market can be a viable solution for funding long term care needs for a client.

In such cases, the client can always surrender their policy to the carrier if the coverage is no longer needed. LIFE SETTLEMENT DISCLOSURE

- In a life settlement agreement, the current life insurance policy owner transfers the ownership and beneficiary designations to a third party, who receives the death proceeds at the passing of the insured. As a result, this buyer has a financial interest in the seller's death.
- A policy owner should consider the continued need for coverage, and, if the policy owner plans to replace the existing policy with another policy, the policy owner should consider the availability, adequacy and cost of comparable coverage.
- Policy owners considering the need for cash should consider other less costly alternatives.
- When an individual decides to sell their policy, he or she must provide complete access to his or her medical history, and other personal information, that may affect his or her life expectancy. This information is requested during the initial application for a life settlement.
- After the completion of the sale, there may be an ongoing obligation to disclose similar and additional information at a later date.
- Individuals should discuss the taxation of the proceeds received with their tax advisor.
- ValMark Securities supervises all life settlements like a security transaction.
- A life settlement may affect the insured's ability to obtain insurance in the future and the seller's eligibility for certain public assistance programs, such as Medicaid, and there may be tax consequences.
- ValMark and its registered representatives act as brokers on the transaction and may receive a fee from the purchaser.
- A life settlement transaction may require an extended period of time to complete. Due to complexity of the transaction, fees and costs incurred with the life settlement transaction may be substantially higher than other securities.
- Once the policy is transferred, the policy owner has no control over subsequent transfers.
- If you are an investor or a buyer of a life insurance policy then you should be aware that:
 - Investment in a life settlement is highly speculative.
 - Although a substantial profit may be realized, a substantial loss is also possible.
 - The death benefit may never be paid.
 - Additional funds may need to be invested to pay premiums if the insured lives substantially longer than expected.
